DR. MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR. UNITY BREAKFAST

Pictured L to R: Yvonne McNeese, Renee Story, Kenny Freeman, Gloria Pearson, Tiffany Nance, Tyrone Orr, and Yoolanda Williams.

In celebration of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., 7 members of our DPO team joined the DMDA and many others on Monday at Ingalls Harbor for the Unity Breakfast and Scholarship presentations. The keynote speaker was Dr. Marcus D. Davidson. DPO donates toward the event every year to help provide these scholarships to well deserving students aspiring to further their education. DPO also is involved with DMDA in STEM events throughout the year.

WHAT IS TOTAL PRODUCTIVE MAINTENANCE?

An operating system of disciplined processes that results in greater uptime for our equipment, increased capacity, improved safety, a reduction in costs, and greater employee participation.

CONTROL HAZARDS

Applying the HIERARCHY OF CONTROLS reduces risks. This inverted triangle notes recommended hazard-control methods from most to least effective.

The goal is to eliminate all hazards. If that's not possible, other hazard-control methods may be deployed. Real-life examples include using non-toxic chemicals, upgrading machinery, installing exhaust ventilation or using alarms.

Help us help you: Alert your EHS leader or supervisor immediately if you see any hazards. We will modify what we can to reduce your risk and keep you safe.

WATCH FOR THE SIX MOST COMMON SAFETY HAZARDS

In TPM, we use our five senses. Smell and sight can help us avoid these common safety hazards:

1. Chemical leakage
2. Slip and fall hazards
3. Heavy machinery traffic (i.e., forklifts, trucks)
4. Fires
5. Confined space hazards
6. Contractors and visitors who don't understand the plant and equipment operations

DID YOU KNOW?

- The better an operation runs, the lower the risk of injury.
- The greater reactive maintenance, the higher the risk of injury.
- Plants with higher OEE have fewer environmental releases.
